These Terms of the Notes Issue Program ("Terms") are not a prospectus for the purposes of the Prospectus Regulation and no competent authority of any Member State has examined or approved the contents thereof. These Terms have been prepared on the basis that all offers of the debt securities are issued by the Issuer according to these Terms and will be made pursuant to an exemption from the obligation to publish a prospectus under the Prospectus Regulation.

An Issue of Notes under the Program is not a public offering in any jurisdiction in which these Terms are available; it is a private placement and there is no intention of the Issuer to list the Notes on a regulated market for the purposes of the Markets in Financial Instruments Directive 2014/65/EU, as amended ("MiFID II"). The Issuer is a company incorporated and existing under the Applicable Laws of the Republic of Latvia and the Applicable Laws allow for the Issuer to record the issue with the central securities depository of Latvia – Nasdaq CSD.

The decision of the Issuer to organize the issue of the Notes has been passed in compliance with the Applicable Laws of the Republic of Latvia. The issue of the Notes, including the relationship between the Issuer and Potential Investors or any third parties, and their respective rights and duties attached to the Notes is governed by the Applicable Laws of the Republic of Latvia.

These Terms do not constitute an offer to sell or a solicitation of an offer to buy the Notes in any jurisdiction to any person to whom it is unlawful to make such an offer or solicitation in such jurisdiction.

These Terms do not constitute a public offer for the purposes of the Prospectus Regulation and no competent authority of any Member State has examined or approved the contents thereof.

MiFID II product governance - solely for the purposes of each manufacturer's product approval process, the target market assessment in respect of the Notes has led to the conclusion that (i) the target market for the Notes is eligible counterparties, professional clients and retail clients, each as defined in MiFID II; and (ii) all channels for distribution of the Notes to eligible counterparties, professional clients and respective retail clients are appropriate. Any person subsequently offering, selling, or recommending the Notes should take into consideration the manufacturer's target market assessment. However, a distributor subject to MiFID II is responsible for undertaking its own target market assessment in respect of the Notes (by either adopting or refining the manufacturer's target market assessment) and determining appropriate distribution channels.

Article 5f of Regulation (EU) No. 833/2014 (as amended by Council Regulation (EU) No. 2022/328) and Article 1f of Regulation (EC) No. 765/ 2006 (as amended by Council Regulation (EU) No 2022/398) prohibit the sale of euro denominated transferable securities issued after 12 April 2022 or units of undertakings for collective investment (UCIs) providing exposure to such transferable securities, to any

RISK FACTORS

BELOW IS THE DESCRIPTION OF RISK FACTORS THAT ARE MATERIAL FOR THE ASSESSMENT OF THE MARKET RISK ASSOCIATED WITH THE NOTES AND RISK FACTORS THAT MAY AFFECT THE ISSUER'S ABILITY TO FULFIL ITS OBLIGATIONS UNDER THE NOTES. SHOULD ONE OR MORE OF THE RISKS DESCRIBED BELOW MATERIALIZE, THIS MAY HAVE A MATERIAL ADVERSE EFFECT ON THE CASH FLOWS, RESULTS OF OPERATIONS, AND FINANCIAL CONDITION OF THE ISSUER AND THE GROUP. MOREOVER, IF ANY OF THESE RISKS MATERIALIZE, THE MARKET VALUE OF THE NOTES AND THE LIKELIHOOD THAT THE ISSUER WILL BE IN A POSITION TO FULFIL ITS PAYMENT OBLIGATIONS UNDER THE NOTES MAY DECREASE, IN WHICH CASE THE INVESTORS COULD LOSE ALL OR PART OF THEIR INVESTMENTS.

BEFORE DECIDING TO PURCHASE THE NOTES, POTENTIAL INVESTORS SHOULD CAREFULLY REVIEW AND CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING RISK FACTORS, IN ADDITION TO ALL OTHER INFORMATION PRESENTED IN THE TERMS, AND CONSULT WITH THEIR OWN PROFESSIONAL ADVISORS, IF NECESSARY. MOREOVER, POTENTIAL INVESTORS SHOULD BEAR IN MIND THAT SEVERAL OF THE DESCRIBED RISK FACTORS CAN OCCUR SIMULTANEOUSLY AND TOGETHER WITH OTHER CIRCUMSTANCES COULD HAVE A POTENTIALLY STRONGER IMPACT ON THE ISSUER OR THE GROUP. THIS IS NOT AN EXCLUSIVE LIST OF RISK FACTORS, AND ADDITIONAL RISKS, OF WHICH THE ISSUER IS NOT PRESENTLY AWARE, COULD ALSO HAVE A MATERIAL ADVERSE EFFECT ON THE ISSUER AND THE GROUP.

1. RISK FACTORS

1.1. Important note

The risks indicated in this Section, if some or all of them materialize, may reduce the Group's ability to fulfil its obligations or cause its insolvency or restructuring in the worst-case scenario. This Section may not feature all the potential risks, which may affect the Group.

1.2. Risks related to the economic and regulatory environment

1.2.1. Exposure to macroeconomic volatility and geopolitical developments accross key export markets may adversely affect the Group's operations and financial performance

The Group sells animal origin products in more than 50 countries in four continents. The revenue is diversified between the continents, of which 29% constitutes sales to EU customers, 31% is derived from Asia, and 40% from Africa. While this wide scope of operations helps to spread economic risk across different geographies, the Group remains exposed to business interruptions that may result from economic conditions deteriorating significantly and remining depressed for extended periods of time. A negative development in general economic conditions or business sentiment could have a negative effect on Group's results of operations, revenue and cash flows.

Downturns in general economic conditions and uncertainties regarding future economic prospects which directly affects both the suppliers and the customers of the Group pose a risk to the Group's business, as both constituencies may scale back their operations in response to tighter credit markets, unemployment, negative financial news or declines in income or asset values, which could have a material adverse effect on the Group's ability to source products and the demand for the Group's produce. In addition, a substantial part of the Group's revenue is derived from business conducted outside EU, exposing the Group to changes in regulation concerning the imposition of trade barriers, such as tariffs and import quotas. These and other such macroeconomic factors are outside the Group's control and may have a negative impact on the Group's revenue and profitability.

1.2.2. Changes in laws, regulations and enforcement activities may adversely affect the Group's products and the markets in which it operates

The Group sells animal origin products across the Europe, Africa and Asia and transports the products across a variety of national jurisdictions and geographical areas. This entails a risk of business interruptions that may result from political circumstances, trade disputes or inadequacies in the legal systems and law enforcement mechanisms in certain countries in which the Group operate. The political circumstances or inadequacies of the legal systems and law enforcement mechanisms in certain countries in which the Group operates may have a material negative impact on the Group's reputation, revenue, cash flows and financial condition. In order to mitigate these risks, the Group is in process of obtaining a guarantee from Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency of the World Bank Group. If successfully obtained, this guarantee will provide safeguards against major political risks in the African region such as security of ownership, withdrawal of capital and other.

1.2.3. Heightened geopolitical tensions and sanctions regimes, particularly relating to the Russia-Ukraine conflict, may adversely impact the Group's operations and financial performance

Given that the Group is conducting business on a global scale, the heightened geopolitical uncertainty prompted by the ongoing full-scale military conflict in Ukraine poses a risk to the Group's operations. In response to the military aggression of Russia, wide-ranging sanctions have been imposed on Russia, which has contributed to heightened volatility in energy and commodity markets.

As of the date of these Terms, the restrictive measures imposed against Russia and Belarus have had no direct material impact on the Group's performance. However, introduction of new sanctions packages and other aspects related to geopolitical events may affect its business results. Furthermore, new sanctions might lead to increased operating expenses across various sectors and result in further raw material and energy cost increases globally, decreased global economic growth, as well as further deterioration between NATO and the Russian Federation may lead to further risk of the war escalating, which could have negative impact on the Group's business results and financial performance.

1.2.4. Public health crisis such as pandemics may disrupt the Group's operations and global support chains

The global economy has been characterized by heightened uncertainty since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic in March 2020. The widespread outbreak of COVID-19 led to unprecedented health measures and restrictions imposed by authorities globally, causing disruptions in the Group's operations. The Group acknowledges that these disruptions may reoccur, potentially impacting Group's future operations. Government responses to the pandemic, including the immediate adoption of laws and regulations, provided a legal basis for implementing measures aimed at limiting contagion and mitigating the consequences of the pandemic.

While the acute phase of the global Covid-19 pandemic has largely subsided, the experience highlighted the vulnerability of global supply chains and business operations to large-scale public health crises. Although many governments have lifted pandemic-related restrictions, the possibility of future pandemics, regional outbreaks, or new variants of existing viruses cannot be ruled out.

1.2.5. The Group is exposed to risks related to changing policy decisions by supranational organizations governing business operations of the Group

The Group is subject to international veterinary and food safety laws and regulations, as well as EU laws and regulations that regulate the industry, consumer rights protection, personal data processing, prevention of money laundering and terrorism and proliferation financing or govern the industry in which the Group operates. Any uncertainty as to the regulatory trends or changes in policies in relation to the industry may delay or prevent the achievement of the strategic plans or increase the cost of implementing such plans. The sale of the Group's products and the provision of services are subject to a high level of regulation and oversight applicable to the Group's industry.

The Group complies with all legislative requirements and other regulations as of the date of these Terms. Legislation and regulations may change however, and the management cannot guarantee, in such cases, it would be able to comply immediately, without material measures to be in line with the requirements of any revised legislation or other regulations. Adapting the operations to any of the changes described above may incur costs for the Group that are difficult to anticipate, which in turn may have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition and results of operations.

1.2.6. Changes in customs regulations may adversely affect the Group's ability to efficiently conduct its operations

The majority of the Group's products are produced in European Economic Zone and delivered to countries outside the borders of EU. With respect to the export of goods to jurisdictions that are not members of the European Union, the Group must comply with the respective national and European foreign trade and customs regulations and, inter alia, pay statutory custom duties when the products enter the territory of other jurisdictions outside of the EU.

As a result of local protectionism, the change in Applicable Laws and interpretation of regulations by various state agencies in the respective countries may cause reduction in demand, delay in payments, and penalties, and in the worst-case scenario financial default of the buyers due to excessive costs associated with changes. The event of changes in customs regulations may have an adverse effect on the Group's business and financial condition.

1.3. Risks related to the Group's business and industry

1.3.1. Volatility in agricultural commodity prices and raw material availability may adversely affect the Group's margins and cash flow

The Group acts as an intermediary in international trade between animal origin product and grain producers and consumers (producers of poultry, livestock, animal feeds, pet food and aquafeed, organic fertilizers, and local wholesalers). Price fluctuations are a risk to the Group, however, the Group is obtaining binding purchase agreements from its customers even before the consignments are shipped out of the port of origin. Nevertheless, there is a certain amount of goods that is procured and delivered to country of destination before the volume is sold. As such, in cases when the value of the consignment decreases after having conducted the shipment, the Group is exposed to a decrease in revenue, thus exposing it to the agricultural commodity price risk.

Furthermore, the availability of the raw materials is directly related to global demand for meat and meat products. If the global demand for meat declines, the Group may face the risk of insufficient supply of raw material and increased cost of products that may make the product offered by the Group relatively less attractive to the customer from its original suppliers and might need to seek other sources.

Considering the Group's operating cost base concentration (majority of costs is due to raw materials and transportation costs) and since the Group usually operates with short-term supply contracts (up to three months) and does not utilize any form of price hedging, market volatility has a direct impact on its operating margins and cash flows.

While such an approach is more flexible for a product trading company, allowing for higher operating margins and management indicated that the market volatility in prices can be transferred in full to the end-clients, the prices are volatile and can be hard to predict more than a few months ahead.

1.3.2. Revenue concentration in specific region may pose a risk, despite a diversified end-client base and structural mitigants

The revenue base of the Group is somewhat concentrated, as 71% of the sales account for the Group's Subsidiaries serving clients in Asia and Africa. However, the end client base of the Group entities is significantly more diversified, including more than 245 end - clients. To mitigate the risk of related party concentration, SIA Afrifeed, registration number in the Republic of Latvia: 40203453472, which is the parent entity for the Africa region Subsidiaries, is included as the Guarantors of the Bonds.

1.3.3. Exposure to foreign exchange risk, particularly in emerging markets, may adversely affect the Group's profitability despite hedging measures

The Group purchases the goods from its suppliers predominately in Euro (more than 90% of purchases), while most of its sales are denominated in US dollars (more than 90% of sales). The Group has an ongoing currency hedging contract to mitigate any USD/EUR rate fluctuations. While the Group tries to minimise the local currency risk in the end local markets where it sells its products to end-customers (countries in Africa and Asia as of the date of these Terms), by converting the sums to hard currencies as soon as possible, it does face risks exposed to local currency fluctuations.

To mitigate any risks related to fluctuations in local currency, the Group's Subsidiaries in the local countries are actively working with the local banks to implement currency hedging instruments. In addition, the Group is employing an internal procedure of fixing the exchange rate at a 2%-3% margin at the time of calculation of sales prices and conclusion of contracts to further mitigate the currency risk. However, given the lack of hedging instruments for the local currencies the Group earns as a result of its operations in African and Asian markets, the Group remains exposed to fluctuations in exchange rates, which can leave a material adverse impact on the Group's profitability.

1.3.4. The Group's strong supplier relationships are critical to its operations, and any disruption may adversely affect its market position and financial performance

One of the pillars of the success of the Group lies in its strong relationship with suppliers. Moreover, the field of animal feed ingredient product trading is considered as reserved business environment and is built on business partners' mutual trust obtained within the continuous business cooperation and strong reputation. Therefore, for the new entrants to this business segment, it is almost or impossible to cooperate and purchase raw materials from the suppliers. The Group currently cooperates with suppliers such as Saria and Darling Ingredients, who are two of the largest producers of animal proteins and fats in the world. In addition, the Group is currently exporting more than 10% of goods in its niche, hence holding a very strong position in the market that has created strong ties with suppliers and off takers.

While the existing relationships with suppliers create a barrier to entry which enhances the Group's ability to maintain its dominant market position, any disruption to the supply chain caused by the issues with the Group's suppliers can have an adverse effect on its revenues, financial condition and competitive position. In addition, any disruption in the mutual trust between the Group and its main suppliers can have an adverse effect on Group's operational efficiency and financial condition.

1.3.5. The Group is exposed to risks related to the management of inventory, including dependency on third-party providers of storage facilities

The Group faces risks related to the management of its inventory, primarily due to the volatility in prices of agricultural byproducts and animal feed ingredients. These prices are subject to fluctuations influenced by factors such as supply and demand, government policies, and global market trends, which are beyond the Group's control. Such volatility can lead to significant changes in the value of the Group's inventory, potentially resulting in write-downs or losses if market prices decline. Additionally, increases in commodity prices may require the Group to commit more working capital to maintain its inventory levels, which could impact its liquidity.

In addition, as a trader of animal feed ingredients, the Group faces risks related to inventory quality and logistics. Spoilage, contamination, or regulatory non-compliance could render inventory unsaleable, which can have an adverse impact on the revenue and deteriorate the financial condition of the Group. Furthermore, given the Group's global operations across Europe, Asia, Africa, and South America, logistical disruptions, such as shipping delays or port congestions, could further impair inventory turnover and subsequently exert pressure on operational efficiency of the Group.

Furthermore, the Group relies on third parties to provide storage services in the end-markets. As such, there exists a risk of theft and other mischievous actions that are beyond the control of the Group, which can result in the deterioration in financial standing and operational efficiency of the Group.

1.3.6. The Group is exposed to risks related to the dependency on the third-party providers of transportation services

The Group relies on third parties to transport its products over large geographical distances. This dependency exposes the Group to disruptions in their operational and financial capacity, which can adversely affect the Group's ability to both provide seamless and timely services to its customers and maintain its competitive cost base. In addition, the dependency on shipping exposes the Group to fluctuations in freight costs. Disruptions in transportation services can potentially be adversely affected by external factors such as unfavourable weather conditions, labour unrest, geopolitical tensions, or other unforeseen events and hinder the Group's ability to supply products to its customers. Further, any transportation delays arising from factors outside the Group's control, including, but not limited to, the factors mentioned above, could adversely impact the Group's ability to meet consumer demand and may result in fewer sales. Any of these risks could have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, results of operations and financial conditions.

1.3.7. Increased financial leverage following the Bond issue may limit the Group's financial flexibility and increase its vulnerability to adverse conditions

The financial leverage of the Group will increase as a result of the Bonds issue, which could result in negative consequences for the business and operations. Such consequences would include, but are not limited to, requiring the Group to dedicate a substantial portion of its cash flow to payments on the debt, increasing vulnerability to a downturn in business or general economic conditions, placing the Group at a competitive disadvantage relative to competitors with lower leverage, limiting flexibility in reacting to competition or changes in the business or industry. Any of these or other consequences or events could have a material adverse effect on the Group's ability to satisfy its obligations on Financial Indebtedness.

1.3.8. Inadequate internal processes or controls may expose the Group to operational risks and compliance failures

Operational risk is a possibility of experiencing losses due to insufficient or unsuccessful internal processes, personnel management, systems, or external circumstances. Thorough personnel selection is carried out, accurate descriptions of job duties are compiled, division of duties is coordinated, which allows the Group and management to reduce operational risks. The Group's internal controls, procedures, compliance systems and risk management systems may prove to be inadequate to prevent and discover previous or future breaches of laws and regulations and generally to manage risks which could have a material adverse.

1.3.9. Lack of a comprehensive intellectual property protection strategy may expose the Group to infringement risks and loss of competitive advantage

As of the date of the Terms of the Bonds Issue the Group has not developed any long-term and sustainable intellectual property rights protection strategy, by applying relevant intellectual property rights protection mechanisms, such as registration of trademarks in the appropriate categories, provision of evidences and etc. In addition, for the cases of branded product, the Group has not protected its ownership or uniqueness of the used product recipes, but its brand names are protected. The Group cannot guarantee that third parties will not infringe upon its intellectual property rights, for instance by using its trade names and that its intellectual property rights may not be challenged by third parties in the future, including by competitors.

1.3.10. Dependence on key personnel and lack of post-employment restrictions may expose the Group to talent retention and competitive risks

As of the Issue Date, the Group employs 43 full-time employees. The Group's employees are a significant part of the business success. Therefore, it is of high importance for the Group to have a professional and highly skilled team of employees with low employee turnover rate. To retain and motivate its personnel, the Group has a performance bonus scheme in place.

The Group's management is employed based on the employment contracts, which are protected by the Labour Law and does not provide the scope derived from Commercial Law against management of the company. The agreements do contain protection of commercial secrets and non-competition during employment, but does not include any non-compete and non-solicitation provisions, after termination of labor contracts. Thus the Group is not protected against competitive activities (including solicitation of its clients) by any of the Group's employee after termination of employment contracts.

1.3.11. Disruptions or failures in IT systems and cyber threats may significantly impair the Group's operations and reputation

The Group's ability to manage critical business operations depends on the ability of its IT systems, including the IT infrastructure, and processes to work effectively and securely without interruptions. There is a risk, these systems will be disrupted by, for example, software failures, computer viruses, hacking, ransomware, sabotage and physical damage, and the high pace of change in the overall IT environment introduces increases risk of data breaches. For the performance of all the internal communication and the possibility to conduct all forms of work, and for the maintenance of all external communication and customer relations, the everyday functionality of the IT system is of vital importance. Therefore, any malfunction within these areas constitutes a risk that would severely impair the performance of the Group and the services offered to customers. There is also the underlying risk such a failure, or major disruption or difficulties in maintaining, upgrading and integrating these systems, may lead to a degraded reputation for the Group among their customers. Any intrusion into their IT systems, for example, from increasingly sophisticated attacks by cybercrime groups, could disrupt their business, resulting in the disclosure of confidential information and/or create significant financial and/or legal exposure and the risk of damage to their reputation and/or brand. The degree to which IT failure and the materialization of any IT risk may affect the Group is uncertain and presents a significant risk to their operations.

1.3.12. Natural disasters and other unforeseen business disruptions may adversely affect the Group's operations and financial condition despite existing contingency measures

12The Group's operations are vulnerable to damage or interruption from various natural disasters and business disruptions, such as fire, flood, power losses, telecommunication failures, terrorist attacks, acts of war, human error, and other events.

A significant natural disaster could have a material adverse impact on their ability to conduct its business, and insurance coverage may be insufficient to compensate losses that may occur. Although the Group has implemented business continuity plans, any of these occurrences may have a material adverse effect on the Group's business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows.

1.3.13. Changes in tax laws or exposure to additional tax liabilities could have a material impact on the Group's financial condition and results of operations

The Group currently operates in European Union and exports goods to Asia and Africa all with different tax regimes. Changes to local tax regimes or challenges to the current tax structures of the Group's business could have a material adverse effect on the business operations, financial conditions, or results of operations and cash flows of the Group. Additionally, certain tax positions taken by the Group require the judgement of management and, thus, could turn out to be inefficient or challenged by tax authorities due to the possible erroneous interpretation of tax legislation.

1.4. Risks related to the Notes

1.4.1. The Issuer may face refinancing or repayment risks at Maturity Date, which could impact its ability to fulfil obligations under the Notes

On the Maturity Date, the full principal amount of the Notes, along with any accrued and unpaid interest, will be due and payable. The Issuer may not be in a position to repay or refinance these obligations. If the Maturity Date coincides with circumstances that prevent the Issuer from repaying the Notes, the Issuer might seek waivers from lenders and holders under those agreements or attempt to refinance the borrowings that include such restrictions. If the Issuer is unable to secure these waivers or refinance the borrowings, it will not be able to repay the Notes and/or pay the Coupon. If the Issuer fails to perform its monetary obligations, the Noteholders are entitled to enforce the Guarantee in accordance to these Terms and the Guarantee.

1.4.2. As unsecured instruments, the Notes are subordinated to secured obligations and expose Noteholders to higher recovery risk in the event of insolvency

The Notes are unsecured debt instruments that are not secured by any assets of the Issuer or Guarantors and that are guaranteed by the Guarantors and are therefore exposed to the risk that insufficient assets will be available to satisfy claims. The Noteholders would be unsecured creditors in the event of the Issuer's or any Guarantor's insolvency. In the event of a default by the Issuer under these Terms, if the Issuer fails to fulfil any of its obligations under these Terms or the Final Terms of the relevant Issue, the claims of the Noteholders will be enforceable against the Issuer and the Guarantors in accordance with the provisions of these Terms, the Final Terms of the relevant Issue and the Guarantees. If the Issuer fails to perform its monetary obligations, the Noteholders are entitled to enforce the Guarantees in accordance with these Terms and the Guarantees. In the event of insolvency of the Issuer or any Guarantor, the Issuer's or the Guarantor's assets will be used for settling the claims of the Noteholders and other unsecured creditors only after the claims of the secured creditors and other preferential creditors are satisfied.

As of the date of these Terms, the Issuer has a Bank Loan from Signet Bank that includes a guarantee from Latvia's state-owned development finance institution ALTUM and is secured with Bank Loan Collaterals. The maturity of the Bank Loan is 1 September 2025 with the option to be extended for one more year, and the maximum limit of the Bank Loan is EUR 5'000'000. As of the date of these Terms, the Group has used EUR 5'000'000 million of the Bank Loan facility.

1.4.3. The Issuer and Guarantors may incur additional debt or grant Security, which could weaken the Noteholders' position and recovery prospects in insolvency

The Issuer and the Guarantors are not prohibited from issuing further notes or incurring other debt or restricted from granting security on any existing or future indebtedness, subject, in the case of the Issuer only, to fulfilment of financial covenants provided in Section 12 (Financial Covenants) and other restrictions and procedures generally imposed on the borrowers by the lenders. The Guarantors are not required to comply with the financial covenants and may incur indebtedness or grant security without restriction. If the Issuer incurs significant additional debt or grants additional security, the Issuer's ability to service its Financial Indebtedness, including the Notes, might deteriorate, the amount recoverable by the Noteholders in case of insolvency proceedings of the Issuer might decrease, and the position and priority of Noteholders in such case might worsen. Similarly, if any Guarantor incurs significant additional debt or grants additional security, it may adversely affect the Guarantor's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Guarantee, and in the event of insolvency of such Guarantor, the recoveries available to Noteholders under the Guarantee may be reduced, and the ranking and enforcement of Noteholders' claims against that Guarantor may be adversely affected.

However, to mitigate this risk, these Terms limit the creation of additional Security by the Issuer to specific categories defined as Permitted Security. Furthermore, the creation of any such Permitted Security is conditional upon the Issuer's ongoing compliance with all financial covenants under Section 12 (Financial Covenants), thereby providing a degree of protection for Noteholders against excessive leverage or deterioration in credit quality.

1.4.4. There is no established trading market for the Notes

If an actual trading market does not develop for the Notes, the Investor may not be able to resell them quickly, for the price that the Investor paid or at all. Neither the Issuer nor any individual guarantees the minimum liquidity of the Notes. Therefore, Noteholders should be aware that they may not be able to sell their Notes or may encounter difficulties in selling them on the secondary market at fair market value or at all.

1.4.5. The price of the Notes may be volatile and the market price of the Notes may drop below the initial price the Noteholders paid for the Notes

The market prices of the Notes are influenced by various factors, including changes in interest rates, central bank policies, EURIBOR fluctuations, overall economic conditions, and demand for the Notes. Neither the Issuer nor any individual commits to maintaining a specific price level for the Notes. As a result, the Noteholders face the risk of unfavourable price changes if they sell the Notes before maturity. However, if the Noteholder holds the Notes until maturity, they will be redeemed at their Nominal Value.

1.4.6. The Issuer may choose to repurchase or redeem the Notes when prevailing interest rates are relatively low, including in open market purchases

According to these Terms, the Issuer has the right to redeem the Notes prematurely. If this right is exercised, the return on investment for the Notes may be lower than initially anticipated, as the Noteholders may struggle to reinvest the redemption proceeds in a similar security with an effective interest rate comparable to that of the redeemed Notes. Additionally, the Issuer's redemption right may negatively affect the Noteholder's ability to sell the Notes.

1.4.7. Changes in tax rates may impact net payments related to the Notes

Tax rates and payment procedures applicable at the time of purchasing the Notes for tax residents, non-residents of Latvia, and residents of other countries, may change. The Issuer will not cover any increase in taxes for Investors, which means Investors may receive smaller net payments related to the Notes.

1.4.8. Decisions of the Majority Noteholders may affect individual rights of the Noteholders

The decisions made by the Majority Noteholders are binding on all Noteholders. Consequently, the Noteholder risks being outvoted by a majority resolution from other Majority Noteholders. This means that certain rights of the Noteholders against the Issuer may be modified, reduced, or even revoked without their consent.

1.4.9. Some Noteholders might have more preferential terms than others

While the Issuer will endeavour to uphold the proportional reduction principle in the final allocation of the Notes, if the total number of subscribed Notes exceeds the available amount, the Issuer reserves the right to refuse all or part of the subscribed Notes to any Noteholder based on perceived risks that may be subjective and not directly measurable. Consequently, the proportionality principle may not be upheld. Additionally, the Issuer has the right to sell the Notes at a price below their Nominal Value to selected Noteholders and/or enter into agreements that grant additional rights to specific Noteholders deemed particularly important for the Notes issue based on their investment size or expertise. This could result in some Noteholders receiving preferential investment terms compared to others. This means that certain rights of the Noteholders against the Issuer may be modified, reduced, or even revoked without their consent.

1.4.10. Investors may be exposed to foreign exchange risk if they measure returns in a currency other than EUR

The Notes will be denominated and payable in EUR. If Investors measure their investment returns in a currency other than EUR, an investment in the Notes will entail foreign exchange-related risks. These risks arise due to factors such as significant changes in the value of the EUR relative to the currency by reference to which Investors measure their returns, influenced by economic, political, and other factors beyond the control of the Issuer. Depreciation of the EUR against the currency in which Investors measure their returns could cause a decrease in the effective yield of the relevant Notes below their stated coupon rates and could result in a loss for Investors when the return on such Notes is translated into the currency used for performance measurement.

1.4.11. Admission to trading on First North may be rejected or discontinued, which could affect the liquidity and marketability of the Notes

After registration of the Bonds the Issuer plans to request admission to trading of the Notes on the Multilateral Trading Facility (MTF) First North operated by Nasdaq Riga. There is a risk Nasdaq Riga will not accept the Notes to be admitted to trading on First North or order the Notes are delisted from First North before maturity after admission to trading has taken place due to changes in legal acts, including Nasdaq Riga regulations, or recommendations by the Bank of Latvia.

1.4.12. The effectiveness of the Guarantees depends on the Guarantors' financial condition and may be subject to legal procedural limitations

For the purposes of guaranteeing the Notes, the Guarantors provide a Guarantees in favour of the Noteholders as the Issuer itself (in Latvian: kā pats parādnieks); it is not the first demand guarantee. The Guarantors will be able to use the same defences as the Issuer. The Guarantees provide the Noteholders to claim payments against the Guarantors, if the Issuer fails to perform its monetary obligations under the Terms and the Final Terms of the relevant Issue. Therefore, the financial condition of the Guarantors will be the key risk factor in fulfilling the performance of these Guarantees. The Guarantees are only as strong as the Guarantors' financial condition, and there is no certainty that the Guarantors will be able to meet their obligations under the Guarantees. Enforcement of the Guarantees may be subject to legal and procedural requirements of the jurisdiction of the Guarantors, which may cause delays or affect the enforceability of claims.

The Guarantors are bound by the Guarantees, not Terms or the Final Terms of the relevant Issue, and unless specifically stated in the Guarantees the Noteholders have no right to give any instructions to the Guarantors and the Guarantors are under no obligation to request or follow such instructions.

F – Nominal Value of one Note;

C – annual Coupon rate (%).

The first coupon payment on the first Coupon Payment Date is determined according to the following formula:

$CPN1 = F * C * n / 360$, where

CPN1 – the amount of Coupon payment in EUR per Note on the first Coupon Payment Date;

F – Nominal value of one Note;

n – number of days since the Issue Date calculated on a 30-day basis.

$AI = F * C / 360 * D$, where:

AI – accrued interest of one Note;

F – Nominal Value of one Note at the beginning of the relevant month, i.e., the initial Nominal Value at the time of the issue of a Note of the respective Issue, as may be reduced by the redemption or repurchase amounts paid during the previous periods in accordance with these Terms;

The following is a general summary of certain tax consideration in Latvia in relation to the Notes. It is not exhaustive and does not purport to be a complete analysis of all tax consequences relating to the Notes, as well as does not take into account or discuss the tax implications of any country other than Latvia. This summary is based on the laws of Latvia as in force on the date of this Information Document and is subject to any change in law that may take effect after such date, provided that such changes could apply also retroactively.

Latvia has entered into a number of tax conventions on elimination of the double taxation, which may provide more favourable taxation regime. Therefore, if there is a valid tax convention with the country of a non-resident Potential Investor, it should be also examined. The procedures for application of tax conventions are provided in the Cabinet of Ministers' Regulations No. 178 "Procedures for Application of Tax Relief Determined in International Agreements for Prevention of Double Taxation and Tax Evasion" of 30 April 2001 (as amended).

If an individual does not meet any of the above-mentioned criteria, he or she is considered a non-resident for tax purposes.

Any legal entity is considered a resident of Latvia for tax purposes if it is or should be established and registered in the Republic of Latvia according to the Latvian legal acts. This also includes permanent establishments of foreign entities in Latvia. Other legal entities are considered non-residents for tax purposes.

BUSINESS DESCRIPTION

The Group, established in 2004, is a family-owned business that is operating as a supplier of high-quality animal feed ingredients across the globe. The Group offers a wide range of ingredients of animal and vegetable origin - proteins, fats, oils, vitamins, amino acids, concentrates - and is involved in production and distribution of organic fertilisers. Since the early beginnings the Group has been trading processed animal proteins and has become one of the top 5 animal protein trading companies in Europe. With 130'000 tons exported, the Group is exporting 10% of total EU exports in this product group according to EU Statistics Bureau. Processed animal proteins is the key product group in the portfolio that is primarily used in Europe in pet food production and in the feed of farmed animals in developing countries like Vietnam, Thailand, Indonesia, Kenya, Nigeria, Egypt, etc. Over the years, the Group has generated a thorough knowledge of creating efficient and sophisticated supply chains. The supply chains include the following activities – market research, sourcing of quality ingredients, international logistics, customs clearance in developing countries, inland logistics, warehousing and stock management, just in time deliveries, financial management and use of financial derivatives, education, and consultations. A combination of these capabilities and physical presence in the largest part of the countries of destination, sets the Group apart from its competitors and even the largest commodity traders in the world. The Group has one of the widest distribution networks in the developing and emerging markets in the world in the animal feed ingredients industry.

One of the pillars of the success of the Group lies in its vast distribution network that spans across several continents. This in return creates flexibility in terms of demand for any product that the Group is dealing with. The Group is also sourcing its products from the most of EU countries, India, China, Brazil, and the US. This serves as a guarantee that the Group will be able to supply its products irrespective of its availability in one or another country. The Group is working with approximately 120 suppliers and has more than 245 customers across the globe.

Exposure to different continents in terms of customers and suppliers makes the Group especially resilient to international trade tensions. The Group is focusing on balancing its trade routes so that it does not have too big reliance on one single market. The largest customer of the Group occupies less than 11% of revenues, with the next being only at 6% in 2024. The Group has partners in more than 50 countries across the world and has local offices in 15 countries with 3 new offices to be opened in 2025.

The Group operates in an industry that is driven by food production mostly in the developing and emerging markets in the world. The same markets are also the only ones with large and growing populations where food consumption is still on the rise. This industry has the most inelastic demand, so it is resilient to market volatility as food consumption is difficult to reduce. Secondly, the Group is working in an industry that is very conservative, in which mutual trust between partners – cultivated through continuous cooperation and a strong reputation – is fundamental. Therefore, for the new entrants it is substantially more difficult to cooperate and purchase raw materials from the suppliers. Through education and establishing access to new raw materials at stable prices and reliable deliveries, the Group is helping its customer base to grow and even further stimulate demand.

1. Strategy of the Group

The Group's strategy is to ensure a seamless, full service trading and delivery service to its existing client base, while actively seeking to expand its global reach. The strategy is to actively expand in all regions in the world to create a business model that is resilient to local or regional shocks and can grow in the long run. Among the key developments of the Group in recent years was sales growth in Africa that contributes a significant part of the revenue standing at 32% as of 2024. The Group has identified Africa as a strategic market, and continued expansion in this region could potentially increase its contribution to revenues to around 50% over time. In 2025 the Group has actively worked to expand sales also in South East Asia and Latin America. The biggest improvement since 2023 has been impressive growth in the number of customers that the Group is servicing. With its track record of 20+ years, the Group has established itself as a reliable partner to clients across the globe. It expects to continue providing door-to-door trading services to existing clients, while actively seeking to explore opportunities in previously untapped markets.

As a result of successful operations, the Group has cultivated strong relationships with its main suppliers, which lie at the core of the Group's strategy.

2. Key strengths of the Group

Integrated, end-to-end service offering

Complete service that ensures door-to-door delivery services is something that sets the Group apart from any of its direct competitors. The Group serves as a bridge between producers of raw materials and producers of animal feeds, biofuels and human food. Starting from sourcing and quality control to logistics and warehouse solutions, enabling just-in-time delivery, the Group streamlines the entire process to ensure sales to final customers, which includes invoicing in local currency in the selected countries. This level of service is unique in many countries where the Group operates, hence it does not have any direct competition in selected regions.

Long-term supplier relationships

Animal feed ingredient industry hinges upon the cultivation of continuous collaboration of the parties involved, making it difficult for new market entrants to kickstart its business. This aspect sets the Group apart from its competitors, given its long-term collaboration with some of the largest animal feed ingredients producers in the world, such as Saria International and Darling Ingredients, and the track record of consistently delivering high-end produce to its customers. By creating stable offtake, the Group ensures high level reliability towards its suppliers, hence reducing any incentives for its suppliers to change partners.

3. The Group's products

Currently the main portfolio of the group consists of products that are a part of circular economy – those are products originating from the meat production that otherwise would be waste. Through processing and sterilisation they are repurposed for better uses, like animal feed, human food ingredients, organic fertilisers, and biofuels. Currently, the portfolio of the Group consists of 3 main product categories – processed animal protein; animal fats; and vegetable products, with the main product, meat and bone meal, constituting 80% of sales in 2024. In 2025 the Group is growing into trade of vegetable products with the first substantial consignments of soybean meal already organised. In 2025 the Group intends to grow heavily in trade and supply of soybean meal, feed wheat, feed concentrates to balance its portfolio with other product groups.

4. Geographical markets

The Group sells its products in more than 50 (fifty) countries across 4 (four) continents and, through its subsidiaries, serves a geographically diversified customer base. In 2025 the Group has started the first regular deliveries to its entities in Latin America – Chile and Peru. In 2025 the Group plans to open 3 more offices in African continent and consider opening 2 more offices in Asia. Most of the sales are denominated in USD, which exposes the Group to fluctuations in the exchange rate, however, the Group has implemented several hedging measures, such as foreign currency hedging between the main currency pairs, sales price denomination in USD, cash transactions management to reduce exposure to volatility over time, working on new contracts with international development organisations and banks to safeguard against severe currency fluctuations. The main markets where the Group's sales activities are carried out are as follows:

5. Group structure

In 2024 and 2025, the Group further strengthened its management team by establishing a new and professional leadership structure.
